

MILITARY COMMUNITY AT ACCENTURE FEDERAL SERVICES: MEET MIA

VIDEO TRANSCRIPT

I can honestly say that the Air Force has given me so many amazing opportunities that really translate well into consulting. I did human capital in the Air Force for 12.5 years and that's pretty much how I landed on the human capital account for Accenture.

It's actually the perfect transition going from Air Force human capital to supporting the DoD with building their human capital strategy for data and AICs. We help shape what talent management looks like, and succession planning, and career pathing, and competency management, but we work hand in hand with a lot of SMEs that have that AI and data experience.

I found my way to AFS once I separated from active duty service. I knew that I wanted to continue to serve the government. I'm actually a Force Support Squadron Commander and Accenture actually gives me quite a bit of time to travel down to Tampa, Florida to support the airmen that I'm leading.

I feel like I am circled by a super supportive community who really understand the importance of military service. Number one, my client is from the Department of Defense. I'm still in that same family.

Then number two, they give me the support and time off that I need to be successful with the second career in the United States Air Force.
